Project’s Title: Environmental Factors Influencing Adoption of Canadian Guidelines on Smoking Cessation in Dental Healthcare Settings in Quebec: A Qualitative Study of Dentists’ Perspectives

Instructions

1. Your participation in this study is anonymous and your answers are confidential.
2. Your participation at this interview implies your consent
3. There are no right or wrong answers.

The goal of this interview is to understand private dentists’ perspective of the environmental determinants which positively or negatively influence the counselling of smoking cessation with adult smokers in Quebec (new and existing patients).

What are the Canadian guidelines on smoking cessation?

The guidelines are a tool used by health professionals including dentists to help smokers quit, consisting of five sequential statements that health professionals are invited to use:

Ask: Health care providers should ask about tobacco use status of patients/clients on a regular basis.
Advise: Health care providers should clearly advise patients/clients to quit.
Assess: Health care providers should assess the willingness of patients/clients to begin treatment to achieve abstinence (quit attempts).
Assist: Health care providers should offer assistance to every tobacco user who expresses a willingness to begin treatment to quit via minimal interventions of 1 to 3 min incorporating counselling and advice.
Arrange: Health care providers should conduct regular follow-ups to assess response, provide support and modify treatment; as necessary; and, are encouraged to refer patients/clients to existing relevant resources (examples in Quebec are smoking cessation centres, the program “j’Arrête j’y gagne”, and family physicians).

The behaviour of interest for today’s discussion is ‘using Canadian smoking cessation guidelines (CSCCG) defined as applying at least one of the five statements in his or her daily practice’. I’m going to keep emphasizing this throughout the interview.

Sometimes, I may ask for clarification of certain responses during the interview using probes such as: “Would you explain that: ‘Take me through the experience’; ‘What skills are required to do so’; ‘What do you mean by…?’
