Genealogy provides a venue for cutting-edge contributions to the interdisciplinary field of genealogy studies. We welcome contributions that examine genealogies of family lineage, use genealogical methods to examine other historical processes (include migration histories, social identities, and social institutions) or study the construction of genealogical narratives. Various genres, such as specialized research articles, reviews, communications and other creative projects, are welcomed. Manuscripts containing original, creative research ideas are especially appreciated. All papers will be peer-reviewed promptly. On behalf of the distinguished members of the editorial board, we extend our welcome to all researchers working on these subjects to contribute to Genealogy.
Aims and Scope

Genealogy (ISSN 2313-5778) is an international, peer-reviewed, open-access journal. The journal aims to reflect the interdisciplinary scope of contemporary genealogical research and theory across the natural sciences, social sciences, and humanities. The scope of Genealogy includes:

- Family history
- Demography
- Social identities
- Genetic genealogy
- Analysis of socio-historical processes that pertain to but are not limited to: migration studies, legal studies, and health/medical studies
- Theoretical perspectives on the genealogical method